4.2 Library as a learning resource

4.2.1 Library is automated using Integrated Library Management System (ILMS), subscriptions to e-resources, amount spent on purchase of books, journals and per day usage of library.

The institute's library is a well-furnished and factious facility, housing an extensive collection of engineering books. It includes a wide range of national and international journals, periodicals and magazines, covering divers subjects like mathematics & science, engineering and technology, humanities and management with a seating capacity for up to 120 students, the library offers a comfortable reading environment.

The collection comprises more than 8000 titles and over 30000 volumes incorporating e-books, national and international journals, magazines, and newspapers. This comprehensive collection empowers students to enrich their knowledge and skills in their respective fields, making the library a valuable resource for their academic and intellectual growth.

ILMS

The library is equipped with college ERP's Integrated Library Management System (ILMS) to deliver high quality service to readers and establish an efficient book storage system. The ILMS includes various features, such as an Online Public Access Catalog (OPAC) and DigitalLib software (Library Management System) that allows users to locate the status and location of books, view available resources, and check their borrower status. For circulation control, users are required to present their ID cards when issuing, returning, renewing and reserving materials.

The library's master module encompasses user, book, journal, CDs, back volume, publisher, vendor, issue/return and report modules. Through this comprehensive system, various reports can be generated and printed, such as utilization reports, books issued and return reports, bibliography reports and categorization based on accession number, author, subject, department, supplier, publisher, title, availability, and unique book titles.

The library management system ensures efficient management and accessibility of resources for an enhanced reading experience.

Access to e-sources

The central library at the college provides students with wide array of e-journals through various institutional memberships, including DELNET and NPTEL. The library's digital library is connected to high-speed 20 MBPS leased line computers within the facility. Users can directly access online journals allowing them to stay updated on the latest engineering research and developments. Moreover, the library offers access to faculty publications, patents and student publications, resulting in a comprehensive collection of scholarly resources. To further enhance the learning experience, the library provides swayamprogramme and other e-learning resources initiated by the government of India.

Library usage and expenditure

The library records a daily usage rate. The annual expenditure on these resources is approximately Rs 3.5 lakhs. The library management system efficiently generates and prints various reports, utilization reports, books issued and return reports, bibliography reports and categorization based on accession number, author, subject, department, supplier, publisher, title, availability and unique book titles. Additionally, monthly and yearly reports are readily available.

Overall, the college central library serves a valuable resource for the students to enhance their knowledge and skills in their respective fields. Its extensive collection of engineering books, access to e-sources and well-equipped facilities make it an indispensable component of the institute's academic environment.
